All this and more will be revealed to you by our team of experts and will be available for one week only (August 23 - August 27, 2010).

They are the best-of-the-best in the United States when it comes to showing you how to save money on your boat insurance, enjoy boating more, and increase your safety while out on the waters.

Coles states there's a lot to know when buying a boat or being out on the open water. It's important to find the right boat for you, get proper financing, keep up with technology, learn how to handle yourself should you get caught in a bad storm, as well as search and rescues.

Coles says the speakers are excited about participating in this project and are already getting great feedback. She's already putting a list together for her next expert series slated for winter 2010. In the meantime, registration is free and available through TheNauticalLifestyle.com website.

The Nautical Lifestyle.com is more than a mere website, it is a community of boaters sharing their passion for and knowledge of boating.
